INTRODUCTION

This finding aid is classified as a numerical list because it describes the files in the fonds. Descriptive notes have been prepared for the overall presentation of the fonds as well as each series. The various levels of description thus enable researchers to find information by going from the general to the specific.

The descriptive note for each file contains a file code, the title, the inclusive dates, the type of record (texts, sound recordings, photographs, etc.), the number or linear quantity of textual records and the number of iconographic or audio records, a description of the file’s contents when it contains different types of records, and a section for notes. This part is important because it contains information about any restrictions to file access and the nature of the records (originals or copies); for audio recordings, a reference number is given. In addition to these elements, the introductions to the fonds and the series also contain biographical information (only in the fonds introduction), a section dealing with the scope of the records, comments on the classification peculiarities of certain series, as well as a fuller notes section.

This finding aid does not contain any files marked “undated”. Whenever we encountered records with no date, we dated them in one of the following ways: [1959?): probable date; [ca 1950]: approximate date; [197-]: decade known; [197-?): decade unknown.

File numbers, which enable files to be located quickly and accurately, are structured as follows:

MUS 264/C3/2,4

- MUS: Repository (Music Division)
- 264: Fonds (André Prévost Fonds)
- C: Series (Teaching)
- 3: Sub-series (Université de Montréal)
- 2: Sub-sub-series (Assignments by composition students)
- 4: File (Doctorate of Maya Badian)

For easier use, the numerical list also features an index of proper names and titles, and an index of files. The proper name index contains mostly names of individuals and musical groups, titles of works and names of radio or television programs. The references in the index are to file numbers, not page numbers. For greater simplicity, the first two components of the file number have been omitted in the index (e.g. MUS 264/B1/3,2 becomes B1/3,2). We have also compiled a file index matching file codes with box numbers.

The design of this finding aid is based on the standards prescribed in Rules for Archival Description, prepared by the Bureau of Canadian Archivists.
André Prévost, 1986.
Sensitive to the people and events around him, anxious because he can clearly see problems but optimistic because he believes in equitable solutions, André Prévost can be described as an idealist tempered with solid realism. This underlying balance combines with simplicity and generosity, making a truly great man and friend.

André Prévost’s family worshipped chamber music. He was brought up on Beethoven string quartets and trained by a teacher who loved classical and modern masterpieces with equal devotion. André Prévost is an assertive composer who uses modern techniques without forgetting that true artistic development must be based on solid cultural roots.

The music of André Prévost is rigorous in structure, with a dense, full texture. Often it vacillates on the one hand between the articulation and disjointedness of harmonico-percussive instrumental masses and on the other, a full use of the strings, with their expressiveness that is sometimes cold, sometimes passionate. His music does not get under your skin gradually: it imposes upon you without warning. Most of his works open with some kind of sonorous ostinato; the mood is set from the first few bars. Despite the unsettling changes that may appear later, there is an underlying feeling of continuity, will and obsession, almost obstinacy, that releases an essentially poetic, lyrical energy. Whether in the intimate setting of his chamber music or the broader sweep of his choral and orchestral works, all Prévost’s music is permeated with the same breath of life and vital intensity that are the hallmark of his style.

On the fringe of schools, fashions and labels, the works of Prévost loom large, for those who want to appreciate music in the way it was meant to be appreciated: by listening!

* by Jacques Hétu (composer, colleague and friend of André Prévost), translated from Compositeur au Québec, 1975.

Biographical Notes

Although he was born in Hawkesbury (Ontario) in 1934, André Prévost hails from Saint-Jérôme, Quebec. Here he attended primary school and went on to study at the Séminaire de Sainte-Thérèse and Collège Saint-Laurent. Following the advice of Fernand Graton, in 1951 the young musician enrolled at the Conservatoire de Musique du Québec à Montréal. Among the courses he took were composition with Clermont Pépin, harmony, fugue and counterpoint with Isabelle Delorme and Jean Papineau-Couture, piano with Georges Savaria and bassoon with Simon Kovar. A gifted composer, in 1959 he won first prize for composition at the Sarah Fischer Concerts, for the second movement of his Quatuor à cordes no 1. In the same year, as a bassoonist, he also won first prize for chamber music from the Amis de l’art foundation. At the age of 25, when he finished his studies at the Conservatoire, he won the school’s first prize for harmony and composition. André Prévost then moved to Paris to complete his training, assisted by scholarships from the Canada Council and the Conseil des arts du Québec. He studied analysis under Olivier Messiaen at the Conservatoire de Paris (1960-1962) and composition under Henri Dutilleux at the École normale de musique (1961-1962).

In 1962, he returned to Quebec and took up teaching, first at the Séminaire de Joliette and then at the Collège des Eudistes de Montréal. After winning the Prix d’Europe composition award in 1963, he left Canada again in the summer of 1964, heading for Paris, where he would study electronic music with Michel Philippot at the ORTF. The following summer saw him spend a short period on research at Berkshire Music Center (Massachusetts), working with composers that included Zoltán Kodály, Aaron Copland and Elliott Carter. In September 1965, André Prévost became a professor at the Faculty of Music of the Université de Montréal; he is still teaching there at the time of this writing.

Internationally renowned as a composer, in 1964 André Prévost won the MSO prize for his work Fantasmes (1963), and the Festival du disque prize in 1965 for his Sonate pour violon et piano performed by violinist Jacques Verdon and pianist Gilles Manny. André Prévost was also commissioned three times to write the Canadian set piece for the Montreal International Competition (Pyknon, 1966; Il fait nuit lente, excerpt from Hiver dans l’âme, 1981; Variations et theme, 1988). When the Expo 67 World Fair opened in Montreal, Prévost’s music was celebrated, with the first performance of his Terre des hommes, based on a poem by Michèle Lalonde and conducted by Pierre Hétu. Sir Yehudi Menuhin commissioned his Cantate pour cordes and conducted the Orchestre de chambre Lysy de Gstaad in its first performance at the Guelph Spring Festival in 1987. This work was also the subject of a television documentary tracing its progress from conception to premiere. The program (“Menuhin-Prévost : une aventure créatrice”), produced by James Dormeyer, was shown by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Canada and Europe, and earned a special Mention at the Prix Italia in Rome (1990) and the Rodgers Communications Inc. Media Award (1991).

Over the course of his career, André Prévost has received commissions for works from Youth and Music Canada (Scherzo, 1960), the CBC’s English network (Diallèle, 1968; Chorégraphie I, 1972), the McGill Chamber Orchestra (Hommage, 1970-1971), the Guelph Spring Festival (Psalm 148, 1971), l’Orchestre symphonique de Québec (Chorégraphie II, 1976), the Toronto International Festival (Ahimsâ, 1983), the French network of the CBC (Quatuor à cordes no 3, 1989), the Ladies’ Morning Musical Club (Quatuor à cordes no 4, 1992), the Montreal Symphony Orchestra (Concerto pour hautbois et orchestre, 1992) and the Festival international de Lanaudière (Images d’un festival, 1992-1993).

The music of André Prévost often reflects the anguish and powerlessness of man in the face of the atrocities committed by his fellow human beings against themselves. Although his work cannot be regarded simply as a form of social or spiritual commitment, André Prévost is a profound humanist and pacifist. He himself says: “I simply cannot help expressing my spiritual concerns in my works. I am indeed greatly motivated by my perception of the world around me; for me, musical creation is an important testimony to my way of seeing and understanding this world”. (translation)

In addition to composing and teaching, André Prévost has for many years been a member of the board of directors of the Canadian Music Centre and is also president of the Groupe Nouvelle Aire. He has received numerous awards, among them the Canadian Music Council Medal (1977) and the trophy of the Society of Composers, Authors and Music Publishers of Canada (1985). In 1986, André Prévost was made an Officer of the Order of Canada.

Most of the records in this series pertain to André Prévost’s studies at the Conservatoire de musique du Québec à Montréal. There are also some records concerning his elementary-school education and his 1957 stay at the Youth and Music Canada music camp, where he attended Georges Goudet’s chamber music class. As a talented student, he received a number of special mentions, among them first prize in the composition and harmony competitions and first runner-up for the fugue, bassoon and counterpoint competitions.

This series contains course notes and exercises, assignments (harmonizations, orchestrations and an arrangement), transcripts, certificates, correspondence, concert programs, a report by the jury of a composition competition and a chart for transposing instruments.

The series consists of the following sub-series: MUS 264/B1 Conservatoire de musique du Québec à Montréal; MUS 264/B2 Various studies.

Most of the records in this series are concerned with André Prévost’s teaching at the Séminaire de Joliette, Collège des Eudistes and Université de Montréal. This series is extensive, providing information about André Prévost’s teaching methods and the structure of a number of his courses. Prévost’s frequent comments on his composition students show how they progressed class by class, revealing a conscientious teacher sensitive to the needs of his students. He has trained many composers, among them Michel Longtrin, José Evangelista, Maya Badian, Anne Lauber, Denis Lorrain, Nicole Carignan and Paolo Bellomia. In addition to composition, Prévost has also taught analysis, solfège and music theory, and the history of music.

Among the records in this series are correspondence, minutes, contracts, financial documents, course outlines, examination questions, André Prévost’s comments on his classes and students, student assignments, musical works by students, grades, class lists, biographical documents, forms, concert programs, press clippings and audio recordings of works by various composers.

The series comprises the following sub-series: MUS 264/C1 Séminaire de Joliette; MUS 264/C2 Collège des Eudistes; MUS 264/C3 Université de Montréal; MUS 264/C4 Private teaching and master class.

This series consists of records covering the work of André Prévost and the evolution of his musical ideas from his earliest compositions of the late 1940s. The various notes and sketches also show how a work takes shape. Researchers can observe the embryonic stages of the work and gain a fuller understanding of its components and transformations. Prévost’s works are diverse, reflecting the ease with which this composer can write for both solo instruments and large ensembles, as shown by his work Terre des hommes for 2 narrators, 3 choirs and full orchestra with double string section. In addition to Terre des hommes, Prévost has composed a number of major works including Poème de l’infini, a Scherzo, Fantasmes, Chorégraphie I, Mobiles, a Cantate pour cordes, Pyknon, Hiver dans l’âme, Ahimsâ and a Concerto pour hautbois et orchestre.

This series contains sketches, rough drafts, notes and manuscripts of André Prévost’s musical works as well as literary texts by Michèle Lalonde, Paule Tardif-Delorme, Gatien Lapointe, Fernand Ouellette and Lise Vézina-Prévost.

The series contains the following sub-series: MUS 264/D1 Early Works; MUS 264/D2 Orchestra; MUS 264/D3 Soloist(s) and Orchestra; MUS 264/D4 Chamber Music; MUS 264/D5 Solo Instruments; MUS 264/D6 Choral or Voice; MUS 264/D7 Incidental Music.

In order to standardize the description of the instruments in a work, we have used the coding generally accepted in the musical world. The figures «3. 2. 2. 2 - 4. 3. 3. 1» denote, for example, the following instrumentation: 3 flutes, 2 oboes, 2 clarinets, 2 bassoons, 4 horns, 3 trumpets, 3 trombones and 1 tuba. Blocks of figures separated by a dash correspond to the woodwinds and brass, and follow the traditional order in which the various instruments appear on a score. If the player of one instrument also plays another instrument, this is specified with the abbreviation for the second instrument appearing in brackets (e.g. 3(picc) = 3 flutes plus 1 piccolo played by one of the three flautists). Also, if the work requires another musician for an auxiliary instrument, this is indicated by the “+” symbol (e.g. 2+c bsn = 2 bassoons plus a third musician for the contrabassoon). Many descriptions of musical works do not specify the auxiliary instruments, showing them only with an asterisk followed by a number (*3) or with an underlined number (4). In describing archival records, we chose to give auxiliary instruments an important place to reflect the fact that they enrich the orchestra with particular sound qualities.
